A Behaviour Challenge

At Camscaff Limited we believe that honesty is the best policy. It is an individual’s choice – whether to steal, whether to lie, whether to deceive, but your decision affects the company as a whole.

Challenge yourself with the following questions if you are in any doubt about the action you need to take. Challenge others also if, in your view, they may be likely to, or are, behaving unethically.

- Does it feel right?
- Does it look too good to be true? If so, it probably is. Sound it out with a colleague, manager, director, another department. Test it!
- Does the decision I have taken look ethical? Could it be misconstrued as dishonest or inappropriate?
- Have I all the information I need to make this decision? If not, you may be misinterpreting the situation.
- How would others – the company, senior management, supplier or customer feel if they became aware of my actions?
- Would I want to read about it in the newspaper or hear about it on the local television news?
- Does it, or might it, hurt anyone – physically, emotionally or by reputation?
- Finally, am I complying with the spirit and the intent of the company’s policies and procedures?

Whistle blowing in the public interest

Anyone who has a genuine concern about wrongdoing at work should feel confident that their concerns will be fully investigated and their confidentiality maintained. You can report your concerns to your line manager or director. Alternatively, if you do not wish to do this, you may contact the Managing Director, in full confidence.

This policy will be reviewed annually by the Managing Director.
